

SPRING 24 GRADUATE COURSES

WGSS 5565: FEMINIST EPISTEMOLOGIES & METHODOLOGIES

Laura Mauldin; Tuesdays 12:30 - 3pm

This is an advanced course in the exploration of the diverse theoretical underpinnings of feminist epistemologies and their relationship to research design, analysis, and interdisciplinary scholarship.

WGSS 5333 TOPICS IN THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN WOMEN

Micki McElya; Thursdays 2- 5pm

This seminar examines the methods and historiography of the history of women and gender in the U.S. from the revolutionary era to the contemporary period, with an emphasis on recent scholarship and grounded in an expansive definition of the category “woman.”

POLS 5197. POLITICAL THEORY. CONTEMPORARY LATIN AMERICAN AND LATINX POLITICAL THEORY

Elva Orozco Mendoza; Wednesdays 4:15-6:45PM

This course engages contemporary Latin American and Latinx political theory, literature, and activism.

WGSS 5614. SEXUAL CITIZENSHIP

Nancy Naples; Tuesdays 3:30-6pm

Analysis of access to citizenship, relationship recognition, marriage rights, heteronormativity and compulsory heterosexuality, trans citizenship claims, immigration, asylum, sex work, reproductive rights, sex education, racism and racialization, colonialism, and social justice.

WGSS 5398 VARIABLE TOPICS: FEMINISM AND ITS DISCONTENTS

Bhakti Shringarpure; Wednesdays 9:30-12pm

A focus on an oppositional body of work that will include Black feminism, Third World feminism, Chicana feminism, queer theory, and transgender studies, among others.

